CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. April 20.—

The fruit growers of this fruit-growing county are greatly ainraned at the damages done to their crops by the killing frosty of the past week and the freezing weather of the past week and the freezing wather of the past two nights.

The peach and cherry trees, which were so full of blooms, even up to yesterday, look wited to-day, and it is predicted that the yield will not be one-third.

A successful farmer from the battsville neighborhood stated this afternoon that there were farmers who would say that their peach and cherry crops were entirely ruined, but the fact was that the weather had kept so cold that many of the buds has not opened and there was yet hoops.

Both Sides Claim It.

Both Sides Claim It.

While the campaign has been short and sharp, it has resulted even up to this time, in arousing the voters to a sense of their duty, and it, is believed that nearly all those qualified to vote will do so next Tuesday.

The McCarthy talk seems to be confined to no class or section, and his name is heard in every group of voters, and he is counted as a potent factor in the fight by the Taylor people, as well as by his own friends. The latter are stoutly claiming his nomination beyond question, while those of Mayor Taylor seem equally confident of victory for their teader. They cannot see how a man so triumphantly nominated over his present opponent two years ago can fail of victory now, and upon this and the contention that the office-holding class and the liquor dealers, as a rule, are for their main, they are predicting their hopes of victory.

A Conservative View.

Between these widely divergent views there is a middle ground, and upon this the non-partisan observer is standing, and predicting a close finish, on Tuesday, Trained politicians, who rely on their own judgment, and who have stood often unmoved amid the whirlpool of partisan predictions, regard the battle so close at this thne, that they would not venture to lay any great sum on either candidate. What the Academy meeting will result in, no one can tell, but it seems to be the concensus of opinion that the conservative speeches of Captain McCarthy, combined with his wonderful acquaintance with the subject of municipal government, are contributing much to his prospects of success.

the Woodruff manifeste was divinely inspired, and that now, in practicing polygamy, he knows he is disobeying both the laws of the land and the laws of God. He was asked why he continued to disobey the laws of God, and if he bolloved them to be the highest laws, and, with a resigned air, he added:
"Well," the manifesto left me in the midst of obligations to these wives. I am trying to do the best I can to live within the laws, but those obligations I cannot shirk."

At the afternoon session Mr. Roberts said no action had ever been taken by the church in respect to his living with more than one wife.

Questions were asked respecting Mr. Roberts's viewe regarding the manifesto of 1890 against plural marriages, and polygamous relations, and the witness and he regarded the manifesto as an administrative act of the church and of binding force upon all members. He admitted that to disobey any of these laws would subject the member to liability to church discipline.
